

COME BACK STRONGER. EARN YOUR MSN AND MPH, TOGETHER.

Effect Lasting Change on the Health of Your Community — and Career

Combine the advanced nursing skills of an MSN with the public health and leadership expertise of an MPH. With this dual degree master's program, you'll prepare for executive-level positions to influence health policy and improve quality of care at local, state, or global levels.*

Master of Science in Nursing/Master of Public Health

Online MSN and MPH Dual Degree Option

Completion Time: As Few as 2.5 Years†

At Purdue Global, you can earn our MSN and MPH together faster than earning them separately. Since the master's degree programs share common core courses, the credits you earn can apply toward both master's degrees, letting you complete both in 82 credits instead of 116.

All your classes are 100% online, giving you the flexibility your busy schedule demands. However, you must also complete an MSN clinical to gain hands-on experience. Purdue Global will work with you to find convenient locations for your clinical experience. You may also satisfy the requirements where you work.

Prepare for executive-level roles in health care and related fields, including:

- Management and leadership positions
- Hospital administrator
- Government agency liaison
- International health manager
- Medical or health services manager

Master of Science in Nursing (MSN)

Emerge as a leader in health care. The MSN portion of the curriculum focuses on evidence-based practice, advanced nursing roles, policy development and implementation, systems of health care delivery, and ethical and legal concepts.

The master's degree in nursing program at Purdue Global is accredited by the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (www.CCNEAccreditation.org).

Master of Public Health (MPH)

Build on your experience as a nurse to make a positive impact on a larger scale. The MPH program emphasizes foundations in public health, disaster management, program development, global health, infectious diseases, and leadership behavior.

The HLC (HLCCommission.org) is an institutional accreditation agency recognized by the U.S. Department of Education.
